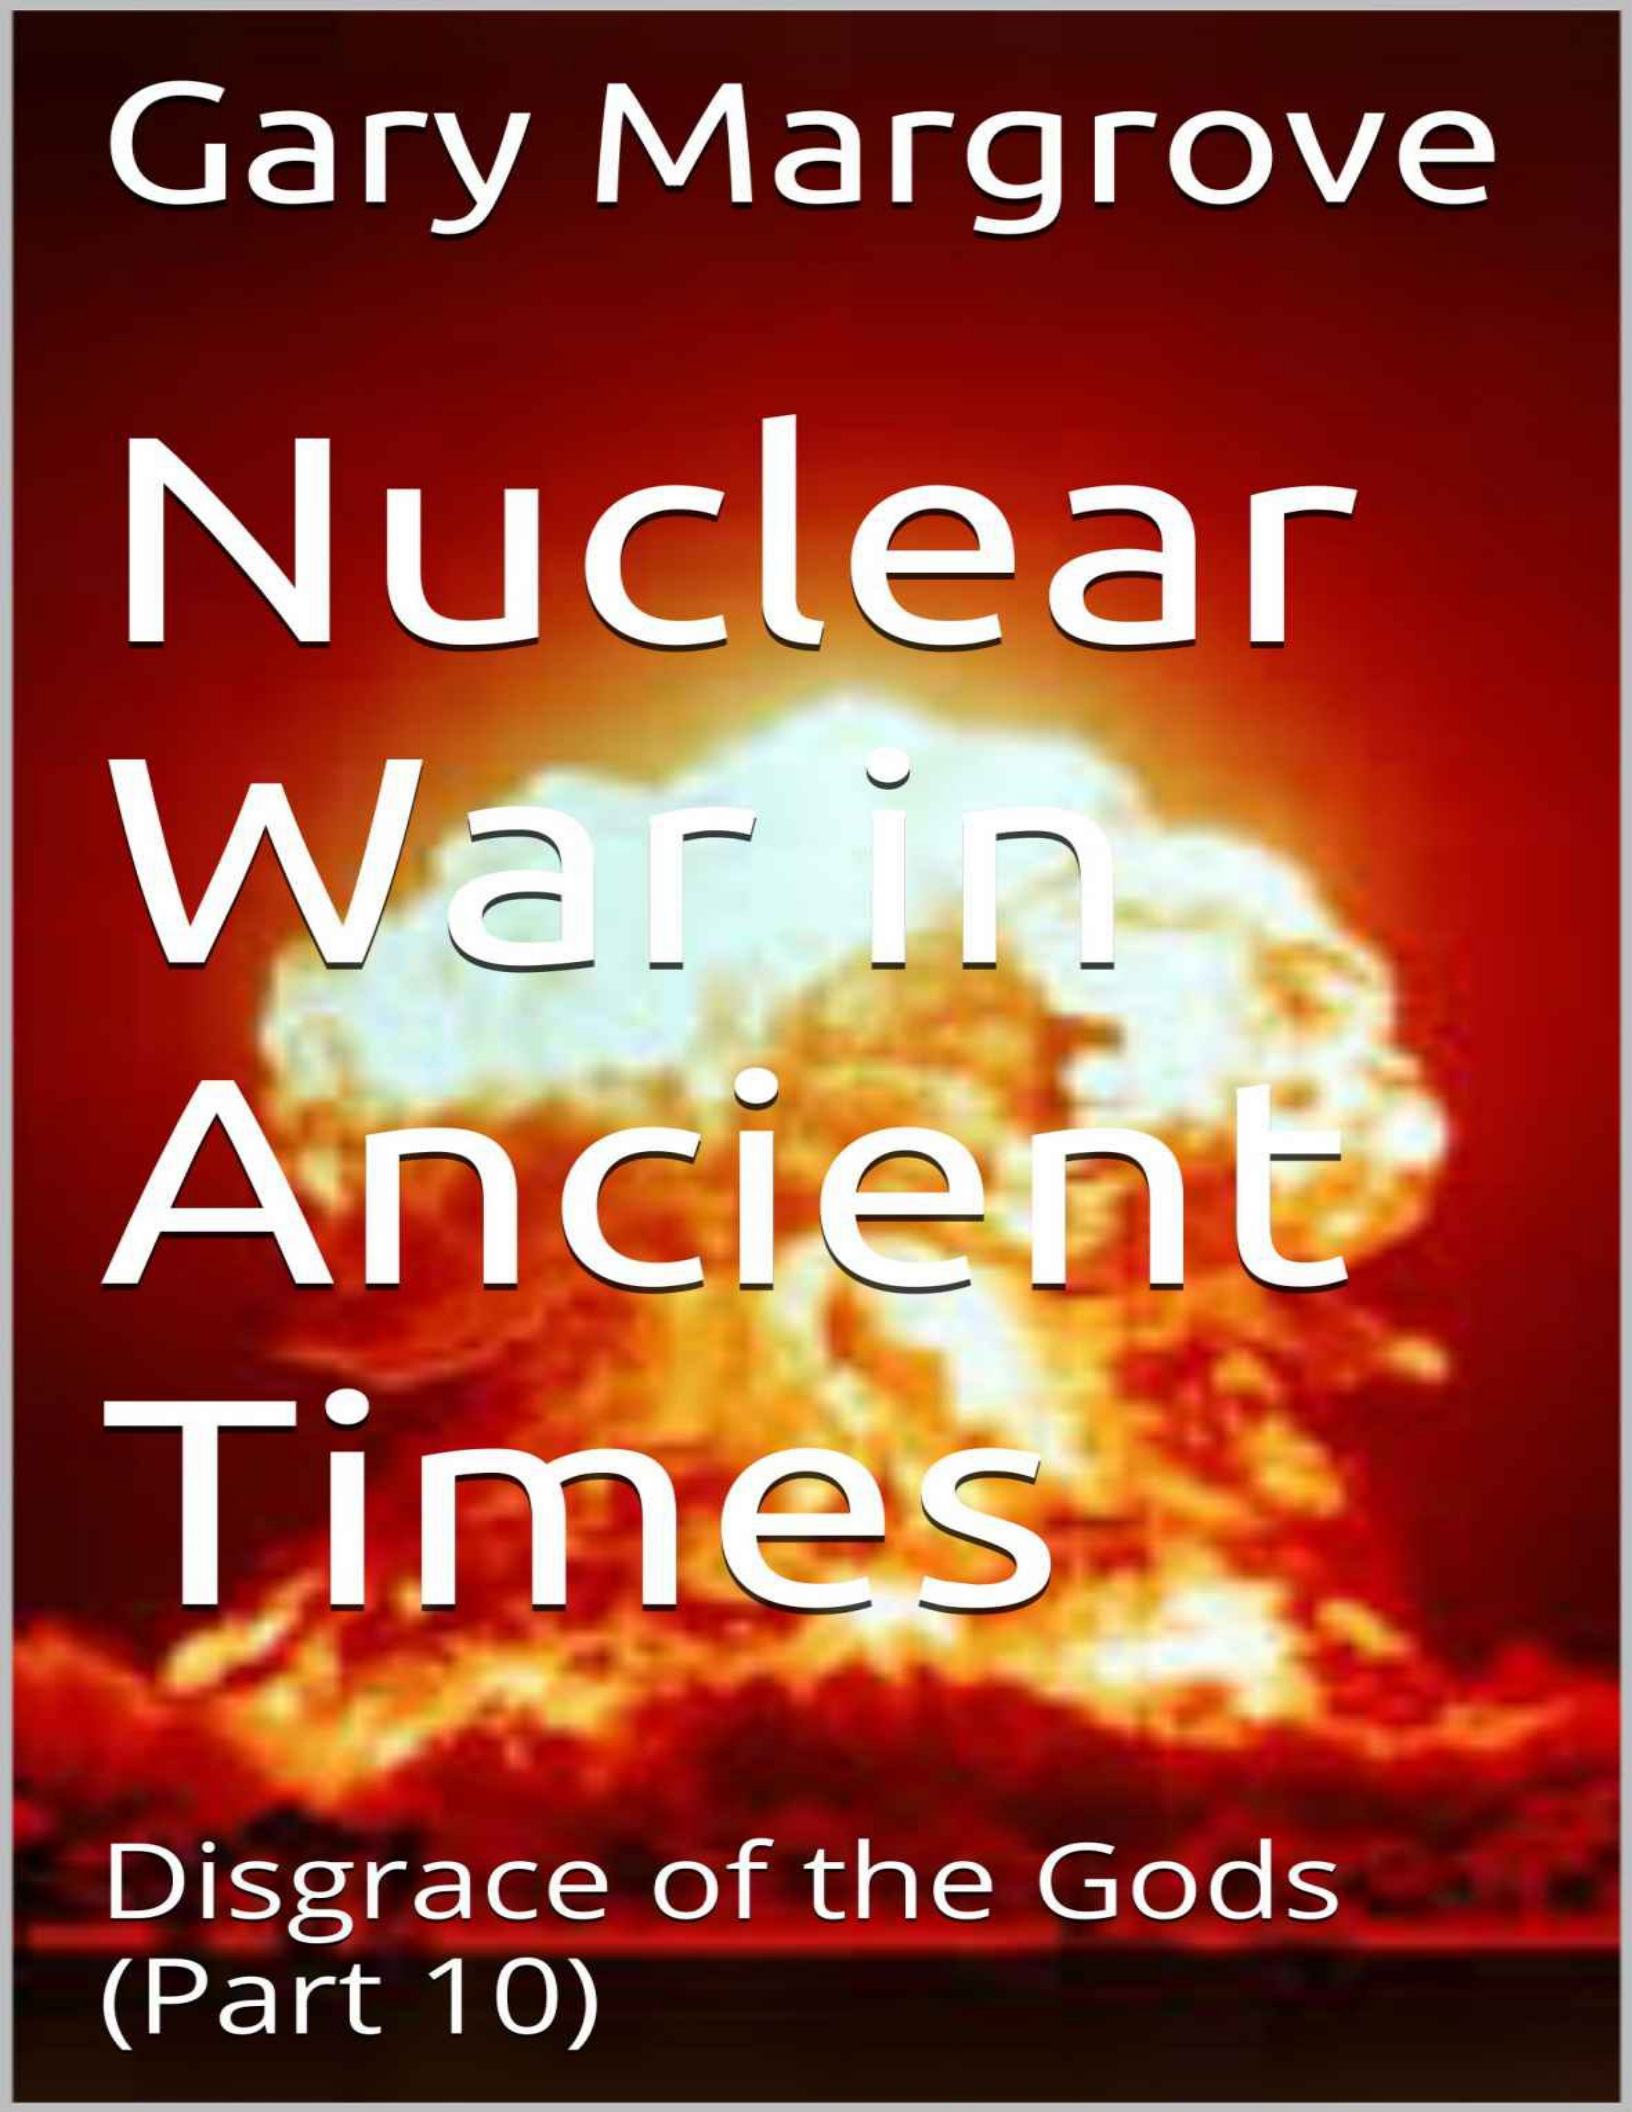
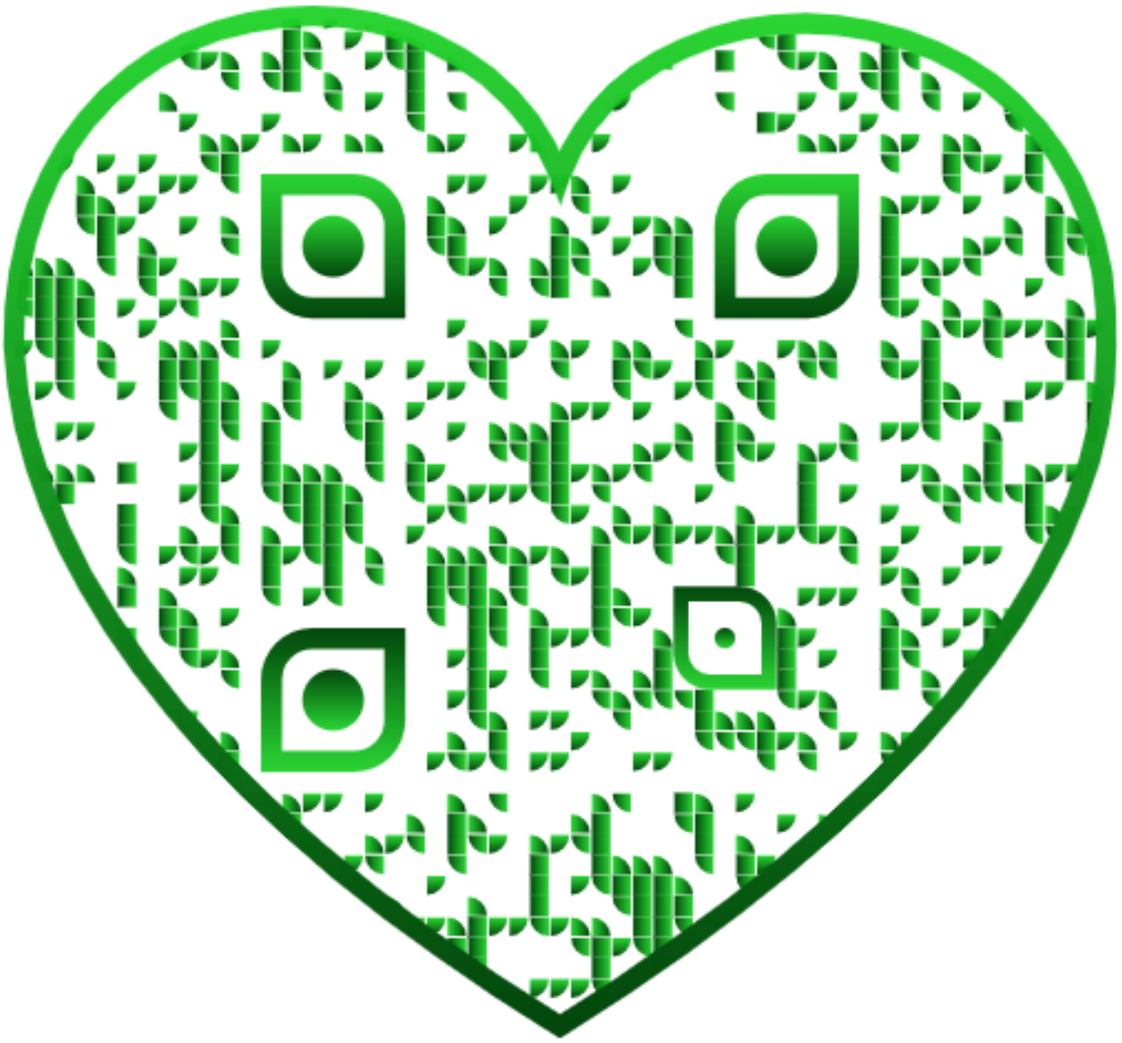
Nuclear War in Ancient Times



Disgrace of the Gods (Part 10)



Armageddon

In the twenty third century B.C. there was a terrible war in Mesopotamia. Unlike previous wars nuclear weapons were employed resulting in the devastation of large parts of the once Fertile Crescent. Cities burned, cattle were roasted in the blast, whole populaces perished and the land was sterile for many hundreds of years. Before I prove the existence of a nuclear holocaust over 4000 years ago I must set the scene for this unforgivable act of wanton destruction.

IBRAHIM

Abram (Ibrahim, Abraham) was born ca 2303 in Ur Kaśdim. He died ca 2128. In his youth he had angered his father by practicing monotheism. In these times the populace worshipped a pantheon of gods we know to be the Anunnaki. King Nimrud wanted Abram killed thus Abram was instructed by the 'god' Enlil to take his wife and Lut's family to the far north of the Persian Gulf – they named this place Harran, after Abram's brother. Harran is in modern day Turkey. Abram himself (as tradition dictates) was a priest. In those days the work of a priest was to 'feed the gods' with Mfkzt (manna from heaven). This 'bread' prolonged the life of the Earthbound Anunnaki (please read the enlightening books of Laurence Gardner). The gods were physically present in those days. Abram spoke directly to and followed the instructions of El (also known as El Shaddai, Elyon, Ilu Kur-gal and YHWH). El is the son of Anu better known to us as Enlil.

Ishmael

For years, the half sister/wife of Abram, Sarai failed to conceive and at her behest Abram took another wife Hagar. Hagar was termed a concubine as she was unrelated to Abram and was considered by the writers of Genesis to be an Egyptian slave. This is one of the first of many mistakes made by the writers of Genesis. Please note the prospect of an Egyptian slave in those times is laughable. Egypt had an empire stretching into modern day Israel. There were no Egyptian slaves. I shall reveal much more in book 3.

Ishmael (the Lord will hear) was the son of Abram and Hagar (a prophet married to a 'slave'). Abram was eighty-six years old when Ishmael was born. This is some achievement. The barren sister/wife Sarai could not abide the union and eventually banished Hagar and her son, Ishmael from the household. Hagar subsequently received word from 'god' that her son would be king of kings.

Ishmael became the father of Arabs. The prophet Muhammad is a descendent of Ishmael and so Ishmael and Abram are the 'fathers of Islam'. Note the term Arab includes Semites therefore Arabs and Jews are from the same rootstock.

Caravanserai

Despite the fact that Abram was settled and perfectly safe in Harran he was ordered by 'god' to leave Harran and take up residence in the land of Shechem, Canaan (on the West Bank of the Jordan). At that time Shechem was part of the Egyptian Empire.

Many people today seem to think Abraham met with an Egyptian Pharaoh. Genesis clearly states:

Genesis 20:1,2

> Now Abraham moved on from there into the region of the Negev and lived between Kadesh and Shur. For a while he stayed in Gerar, > and there Abraham said of his wife Sarah, "She is my sister." Then Abimelek king of Gerar sent for Sarah and took her.

I must stress Abram never travelled to the land of Egypt as we know it today. He was however resident in part of the Egyptian empire. More in book 3.

No sooner had Abram settled in the region of the Negev (southern Israel, capital Beersheba) than El (Enlil) instructed Abram to visit Abimelech of Gerar (then a Philistine settlement in modern day Israel) to enlist warrior camel riders to fight in a forthcoming battle. Abimelech was self-appointed ruler of what is now Israel. He killed his brothers to become king and was known for his dreadful cruelty.

In Genesis it is stated that when Abram was asked by Abimelech (Avimelekh or Abimelek) to introduce Sarai Abram referred to Sarai as his sister, not his wife (a rather strange thing to do). The Philistine King of Gerar, Abimelech was then said to have taken Sarai ‘for himself’. Surely Abraham would have protested. His half sister/wife was in peril. Abram did nothing. Instead he left it to god to punish the ‘Pharaoh’.

All scriptures further state that Abimelech apologises to Abram after ‘having a bad dream’. Abram forgives Abimelech. As most of what is written here makes little sense a more satisfactory explanation awaits you dear reader in book 3.

Some time later Abram left Gerar (without Sarai) with several hundred ‘shock’ camel troops who were able to negotiate the local rocky terrain far faster than horseback riders.

Isaac

According to the scriptures eventually (with the help of ‘god’) Abram and Sarai did have a son; Isaac. Abram was 100. Sarai was amazingly 90 years old. Book 3 offers a startling alternative.

God commands Abram to ‘sacrifice’ his only son in Genesis chapter 22. The word only is puzzling. Is god referring to Ishmael or Isaac? In modern versions of the bible Isaac is mentioned by name for clarification. However Abram had two famous sons and almost a dozen others. This ‘sacrifice’ I suggest refers to the sidestepping of Ishmael as heir apparent to Abram. Was it really god’s command or a little poetical license?

Lut

Haran's son Lut was Abram's nephew. He did not accompany his uncle to Gerar (Abimelech's capital) but resided in Bethel (later to become Bethlehem). A dispute arose there regarding sheep grazing (in those days a herd of sheep was as currency is today). Lut agreed to remove his herds to faraway pastures within the land known as Sodom. This exposed region was scant protection from hostile attack. Indeed Lut and his family and sheep were captured in a raid. This gave Abram and his 'shock' troops the opportunity to prove their worth. Upon hearing of his nephew's imprisonment Abram attacked his captors thus retrieving Lut's family and sheep with little loss of blood.

It was the Elamite army that had captured Lut's family during the siege of Sodom. The Elamites historically were enemies of Sumer & Akkadia and even occupied Babylon when Marduk had been tricked by his brother into leaving the city.

Upon Abram's return to Canaan the king Melchizedek of Salem (Jerusalem) himself brought 'bread' to Abram and blessed him.

Abram awarded the king 1/10th of his booty but mysteriously would have nothing to do with the King of Sodom who had likewise attempted to bless Abram. Did Abram know in advance the fate that was to befall Sodom?

It was 'god' who promised Abram that Isaac's descendents would rule in lands occupied by the Kenites, Kenizzites, Kadmonites, Hittites, Perizzites, Rephaites, Amorites, Canaanites, Girgashites and Jebusites. Isaac was to be 'the father of many nations'. God had also promised Ishmael would be king of kings. What was 'god's' plan?

Pausing here (before we enter into bloody battle) I wish to make several points regarding the testimony I have painstakingly investigated. All the scriptures agree on the major factors regarding the life of Ibrahim (Abraham, Abram). Consequently Islam, Judaism and Christianity are all in accord. Furthermore none of these faiths was extant at this time. So what happened in the Middle East in the following centuries that has since resulted in the massive rift in religious belief we have today?

Abram and his small family had uprooted themselves several times at the behest of 'god'. He was an old man when 'god' instructed him to visit 'Egypt'. The reason (to obtain a fighting force of camel riders) was a strange request. Abram obeyed 'god' and spent five years training the camel riders in battle. Therefore a battle must have been imminent. Then Abram (with the permission of the 'Pharaoh') commanded the troops to follow him. We are to assume therefore that a battle would take place in Canaan for which Abram had been readied – by 'god'. This same 'god' must also have been the 'god' of Egypt for why would the 'Pharaoh' comply so willingly otherwise. Yet at this time in history neither the Hebrews nor the Egyptians believed in monotheism. In fact a belief in one omnipotent God did not ‘catch on’ in Canaan until as late as the first millennium BC despite the teachings of Abraham over a thousand years before.

The aforementioned battle did indeed take place. Abram successfully defended Mission Control Centre at Jerusalem. When the threat was over as instructed by ‘god’ Abram himself left without investigating the Centre or removing anything of value (please read Zecharia Sitchin’s books).

It seems that ‘god’ not only spoke to Abram regarding his son Isaac (who will be the template for Judaism and Christianity) but also promised that the eldest son Ishmael would sire kings. He became the template for Islam. Had ‘god’ made a decision to further divide humanity following the ‘confusing of tongues’ destroying of the Babel tower? Indeed this is what we encounter today. Great problems arise from differing religious beliefs. Wars have been fought, crusades launched and heated debates take place in our holy places. Land is grabbed and natural mineral reserves are appropriated in the name of ‘god’. Surely God is the same no matter what religion is practiced.

Falsifying of the truth has been practiced through the ages by learned people and Governments alike. In recent times the reason given for the second invasion of Iraq was an outright lie. Iraq was the seat of early civilisation; in fact it is where all the first cities were built by the Anunnaki. Is this modern day invasion just a coincidence?

Abram must have been a person of great importance for did not the Kings of Salem (Jerusalem) and Sodom offer him ‘bread’ and bless him? Monotheism was not practiced in these regions. On the contrary the whole of Mesopotamia and Egypt as well as the Hittite region were teeming with a multitude of ‘gods’ all with their own special places of worship. Many of these ‘gods’ (as we saw in a previous chapter) are the same but with names that vary from region to region. Neighbouring states perhaps worshipped the same ‘god’ by a different name yet were unaware they were doing so. One state would have statues of Enki (under a local name) another Enlil and so on. Yet the common factor in Canaan (part of the Egyptian Empire) was Abram.

The hour for the most terrible war in ancient history draws ever closer. Shortly before the outbreak of war Abram is visited by three emissaries of ‘god’ (the word for emissaries is translated into angels in modern religious texts):

They walked over to the peak that overlooked the Cities of the Plain to discuss the fate of Sodom and Gomorrah ‘for their detestable sins that were so great’.

Above it originally read Sodom in Gomorrah. The ‘angels’ warn Abram and later Lut that Sodom is to be annihilated. How did they know?

According to the scriptures Lut and his family leave Sodom by night. However his wife turns to witness the destruction of Sodom. Looking at a nuclear blast may indeed turn one into a ‘pillar of salt’.

The Bloodiest War

Throughout my books I make reference to the Anunnaki being giants who were worshipped by mankind. A mere 600 Nephilim governed the whole planet and some few indeed do so to this day. With their immense stature and advanced technology they appear to be ‘gods’ indeed. We obey them and we worship them. Failure to do so is punishable by death. We rarely pause to wonder what their reasons were for pitting one nation against another. Instead we spend our entire lifetime building more glorious monuments, temples, ziggurat and pyramids & fighting bloody wars. Those (like Ur-Nammu, Sargon, Gilgamesh and Abram) who were specially chosen by the ‘gods’ were themselves descended from Anunnaki.

The time is circa 2,220 B.C. Marduk had lost his powerbase in Babylonia and had reluctantly relinquished Egypt. Elamites occupied his beloved Babylon and were expanding territory at the behest of Enlil and his sons. As a result of these pressures on Marduk & the Enki clan the greatest war of the ‘gods’ was inevitable.

In its early stages the war was fought by humans on land & an aerial battle between rival Anunnaki raged. There seemed no end to it until Ninurta (Enlil’s eldest son) repaired to the Sinai where a cache of nuclear weapons was secreted. Ninurta informed his father & the Supreme Council that the Elamites (having turned traitor) under instructions from Marduk were about to capture the space station in the Sinai.

The Council decreed that ‘limited nuclear weapons should be deployed’. Ninurta rose to the heavens in his Vimana & unleashed ‘the power of six Suns’ upon troops loyal to Marduk. They were instantly vapourised. A joyous Ninurta fired the remaining nuclear missiles at the disloyal Elamite troops stationed in the famed city state of Sodom. Within a few short minutes the threat to those loyal to Enlil & the prospect of losing the all important Sinai space station had ceased. Nobody had foreseen what would happen next.

The resultant nuclear wind swept ominously Eastwards to those ancient cities north of the Persian Gulf. Invisible clouds of poison enveloped once beautiful lands. Sumer was no more. Babylon became a wasteland. Whole populations were decimated, livestock perished and cultivated crops withered. Many ‘gods’ barely escaped with their lives leaving all their personal belongings as they scrambled to the sky in their Vimana.

For almost a century the region formerly known as Sumeria became completely uninhabitable. The proof:

The Arabic name for the Dead Sea is Buhayrat Lut (Sea of Lut). Nowadays the Vale of Siddim (Sodom) is under the waters of the Dead Sea. An expedition led by archaeologists Walter Rast & Thomas Schaub from the University of Indiana unearthed two sites in the plain (Bab edh-Dhra and Numeira): Bronze Age settlements that suffered a terrible calamity around 2220 B.C. The water from the Dead Sea had literally swallowed these settlements.

Testimony to one of the worst disasters in history comes from both the Bible and the Qu'ran:

(The Messengers) said: “O Lut! We are Messengers from thy Lord! By no means shall they reach thee! Now travel with thy family while yet a part of the night remains, and let not any of you look back: but thy wife (will remain behind): To her will happen what happens to the people. Morning is their time appointed: Is not the morning nigh?” Surah Hud: 81

The Qur’an states that the males of Sodom were literally sodomites rejecting their females in favour of men. Surat al-Qamar: 33-36

Travel by night with thy household, when a portion of the night yet remains and do thou bring up the rear. Let no one amongst you look back Surat al-Hijr: 62-66

Peter B deMenocal of the Lamont-Doherty Earth Observatory of Columbia University wrote in his article Cultural Responses to Climate Change During the Late Holocene Science 27 April 2001:

“Rocks called tephera are created from volcanic eruptions. Tephera are found throughout the Dead Sea area and Mount Sinai despite the fact that there are no volcanoes in this area. Sometime in the distant past a massive volcanic eruption must have sent debris hurtling hundreds of miles into the air. The result we see today is the Dead Sea region.”

The following descriptions of nuclear wasteland, both modern and ancient, are borrowed almost verbatim from:

http://theextinctionprotocol.wordpress.com/2011/07/20/historys-lost-lesson-ancient-nuclear-war-among-indus-valley-civilizations-reexamined/

Consider these verses from the ancient Mahabharata: …a single projectile charged with all the power of the Universe. An incandescent column of smoke and flame As bright as the thousand suns rose in all its splendour… a perpendicular explosion with its billowing smoke clouds… …the cloud of smoke rising after its first explosion formed into expanding round circles like the opening of giant parasols… ..it was an unknown weapon, an iron thunderbolt, a gigantic messenger of death, which reduced to ashes the entire race of the Vrishis and the Andhakas. …The corpses were so burned as to be unrecognizable. The hair and nails fell out. Pottery broke without apparent cause and the birds turned white. After a few hours all foodstuffs were infected… …to escape from this fire, the soldiers threw themselves in streams to wash themselves and their equipment.

Until the bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, modern mankind could not imagine any weapon as horrible and devastating as those described in the ancient Indian texts. Yet, they very accurately described the effects of an atomic explosion. Radioactive poisoning will make hair and nails fall out. Immersing oneself in water gives some respite, though it is not a cure.

When excavations of Harappa and Mohenjo-Daro reached the street level, they discovered skeletons scattered about the cities, many holding hands and sprawling in the streets as if some instant, horrible doom had taken place. People were just lying, unburied, in the streets of the city. Excavations down to the street level revealed 44 scattered skeletons, as if doom had come so suddenly they could not get to their houses. All the skeletons were flattened to the ground. A father, mother and child were found flattened in the street, face down and still holding hands. These skeletons are thousands of years old. What could have caused such a thing? Why did the bodies not decay or get eaten by wild animals? Furthermore, these skeletons are among the most radioactive ever found (on a par with those at Hiroshima and Nagasaki).

One city, found between the Ganges and the mountains of Rajmahal, seems to have been subjected to an intense blast of immeasurable heat. Huge masses of walls and foundations of the ancient city are fused together, literally vitrified! And since there is no indication of a volcanic eruption at Mohenjo-Daro or at the other cities, the intense heat to melt clay vessels can only be explained by an atomic blast or some other unknown weapon. The cities were almost totally vapourised.

There is evidence that the Rama empire (now India) was devastated by nuclear war. The Indus valley is now a (Thar) desert containing sizeable measurable radiation. A heavy layer of radioactive ash in Rajasthan, India covers a three-square mile area ten miles west of Jodhpur. It has been established that there is a very high rate of birth defects and cancer in the area. The levels of radiation are so great that the Indian government has cordoned off this region.

Scientists have unearthed an ancient city where evidence indicates that thousands of years ago an atomic blast destroyed the buildings and was responsible for the deaths of almost half a million people. One researcher estimates that the strength of the bomb used was equivalent to those dropped on Nagasaki and Hiroshima, Japan in 1945.

Another curious sign of an ancient nuclear war in India is a giant crater near Bombay. The nearly circular 2,154-metre-diameter Lonar crater is located 400 kilometres northeast of Mumbai. No trace of any meteoric material has been found at the site or in the vicinity and this is the world's only known "impact" crater in basalt. It appears to have been caused by nuclear warfare. Indications of great shock (from a pressure exceeding 600,000 atmospheres) and intense, abrupt heat (evidenced by basalt glass spherules) can be ascertained from this site at Ajithkuma

So if Lut's wife did indeed view the holocaust and was 'turned into a pillar of salt' how can the disaster have been an earthquake or volcano as some have postulated? The ensuing rain of 'fire and brimstone' buried these settlements under tons of clay and ripped a hole in the ground that allowed the Dead Sea water to envelop the cities.

At the same time Sodom was destroyed Egypt was attacked from the East. The magnificent cities of Heliopolis and Memphis were wiped out, thus bringing to an end the first ten dynasties of Pharaohs. Conclusively 2220 B.C. was also the year the Sumerian and Akkadian empires ceased to exist. These coincidences cannot possibly be explained by random volcanoes, earthquakes or the like. They were simultaneous and interconnected.

These great empires were annihilated in one stroke by massive nuclear explosions that devastated the whole of Mesopotamia and led to the collapse of civilisations as far away as Egypt.

Marauding hordes of barbarians pillaged and looted their way west through the Sinai, an area previously forbidden to humans. It required the interference of the ‘gods’ (who themselves had caused the destruction) to eventually restore civilisations.

The explanation for the re-emergence of Egyptian, Babylonian and a new Assyrian empire becomes clear. The ‘gods’ destroyed. The ‘gods’ rebuilt.

John Noble Wilford states “For years archaeologists puzzled over the 300-year gap in human occupation of Tell Leilan (central Akkadia) and neighbouring towns beginning in 2220 B.C. One of the first discoveries was a half-inch layer of volcanic ash covering the rooftops of buildings at Tell Leilan. All ash falls leave distinctive chemical signatures. An analysis by Dr. Guichard traced the likely source of this potassium-rich ash to volcanoes a few hundred miles away in present-day Turkey.

Mangal sen Jindal states that disaster struck Sumeria around 2220 BC when Elamites from the highlands destroyed the capital city. Had the powerful army of Sumer been able they would have repulsed this attack as they had continuously for 2000 years. Something we are all too familiar with these days – radiation sickness - had decimated the populace of that once magnificent empire.

The reason for this catastrophic decision:

In his haste to rule Marduk had prematurely launched an attack on the strategic spaceport in the Sinai. Ninurta & his father were furious. In an attempt to prevent Marduk from seizing power Ninurta consulted the wise Council of the Anunnaki and received permission to use limited nuclear weapons on Marduk's troops. So incensed was Ninurta that he unleashed a nuclear strike on the region around the Dead Sea.

The kingdom of Sodom was allied with the cities of Admah, Zeboim and Bela: known as the "cities of the plain". That plain was known as Gomorrah. These cities were selected as targets by Ninurta to teach a lesson to all states that had become disloyal to the Enlilites. From that day all of Mesopotamia bowed to the might of Ninurta.

"The people of the land by the evil storms hand were clutched. Those who behind locked doors hid inside their houses like flies were felled. Those who in the streets fled, in the streets were their corpses piled up. Everything that lived perished." [Sitchin, Z., 2002, The Lost Book of Enki, pages 312 - 313].

The 'gods' themselves escaped the holocaust as testified in Assyrian texts written after the tragedy: In Lagash, Ninurta's capital city, his wife Bau (his half sister), who ran the hospital for slaves in the city, refused to leave and died with them. Nanna dawdled thus escaping but with radiation injuries that left him with a permanent limp.

Babylon, "where Marduk his supremacy declared', by the Evil Wind was spared [Sitchin, Z., 2010 There Were Giants Upon the Earth, pages 250, 327].

Despite such an overwhelming defeat Marduk was nevertheless awarded rulership of Ki. The omens were good, the constellation Aries had finally reached ascendency in the heavens. The fact was that the requirement for gold for the survival of Nibiru was now at an end. The planet Nibiru was due to return within a few hundred years. The Enlil clan and indeed Enki and his family wished to return permanently to Nibiru. They had no further need for their slaves – the earthlings.

2220 BC heralded the approach of the age of Aries – finally Marduk was to be declared official ruler of Ki but at what a cost. The Fertile Crescent was devastated. Looters roamed the countryside. Homeless & hungry whole populations migrated to Asia & Anatolia. Once great cities lay in ruins, covered in a thin red dust. The effects of the nuclear wind would prevail for hundreds of years to come.

TIMELINE

History Timeline According to Zecharia Sitchin

Events Before the Deluge

450,000 years ago,

On Nibiru, a distant member of our solar system, life faces slow extinction as the planet's atmosphere erodes. Deposed by Anu, the ruler Alalu escapes in a spaceship and finds refuge on Earth. He discovers that Earth has gold that can be used to protect Nibiru's atmosphere.

445,000

Led by Enki (eldest son of Anu) the Anunnaki land on Earth, establish Eridu -Earth Station I - for the purpose of extracting gold from the waters of the Persian Gulf.

430,000

Earth's climate mellows. More Anunnaki arrive on Earth, among them Enki's half-sister Ninhursag - Chief Medical Officer.

416,000

As gold production falters, Anu arrives on Earth with Enlil, the heir apparent. An important decision is made to obtain vast quantities of the vital gold by mining it in southern Africa. The decision will ensure that mankind is enslaved to their gods for all time. The Anunnaki draw lots. Enlil is made ruler of our planet, Enki is granted gold mining operations in Africa. As he departs our planet

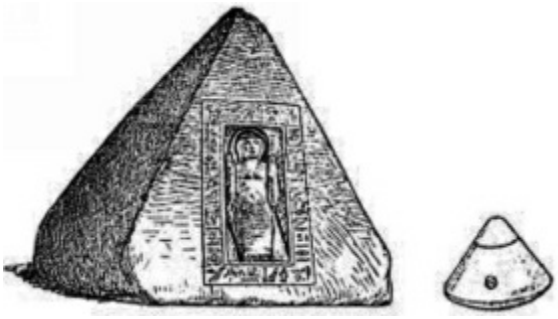
400,000

Seven functional settlements in southern Mesopotamia include a Spaceport (Sippar), Mission Control Centre (Nippur) and a metallurgical centre (Shuruppak). The ores arrive by ships from Africa; the refined metal is sent aloft to orbiting stations manned by Igigi then transferred to spaceships arriving periodically from Nibiru.



380,000

Gaining the support of the Igigi, Alalu's grandson attempts to seize mastery over Earth. The Enlilites win the War of the Olden Gods.

300,000

The Igigi working in the gold mines mutiny. Enki and Ninhursag ‘create Primitive Workers’ through genetic manipulation of Ape woman. The Lulu replace the Igigi as manual labourers. Enlil commands Enki to produce several families of the Lulu for his own entertainment. They are transported to Edin in the Middle East. Now able to procreate Homo Sapiens begins to multiply.

200,000

Life on Earth regresses during a new glacial period.

100,000

Climate warms again. The Anunnaki (the biblical Nephilim), ‘take the daughters of Man’.

75,000

A new Ice Age begins. Regressive Man roams the Earth. Cro-Magnon man survives.

49,000

Enki and Ninhursag elevate humans of Anunnaki parentage to rule in Shuruppak. An enraged Enlil plots Mankind's demise.

13,000

As Nibiru approaches our planet (as it does every 3600 years) this time it will trigger an immense tidal wave. Enlil forces the Anunnaki to swear they will keep the impending calamity a secret from Mankind.

Events After the Deluge

11,000 B.C.

Enki breaks the oath. He instructs Ziusudra/Noah to build a submersible ship. The Deluge sweeps over the Earth. The Anunnaki witness the total destruction of Mesopotamia from their orbiting spacecraft. A few families are safe in the submersible. Upon their return the Anunnaki make a new pact - to grant the remnants of Mankind implements and seeds and never again deliberately harm the human race. Agriculture begins in the highlands. Enki domesticates animals.

10,500 B.C.

The descendants of Noah are allotted three regions. Ninurta, Enlil's foremost son, dams the mountains and drains the rivers to make Mesopotamia habitable. Enki reclaims the Nile valley. The Sinai Peninsula is retained by the Anunnaki as their post-Diluvial spaceport. Mission Control Centre is established on Mount Moriah (the future Jerusalem).

9,780 B.C.

Ra/Marduk (Enki's firstborn son) is forced to divide dominion over Egypt between Osiris and Seth.

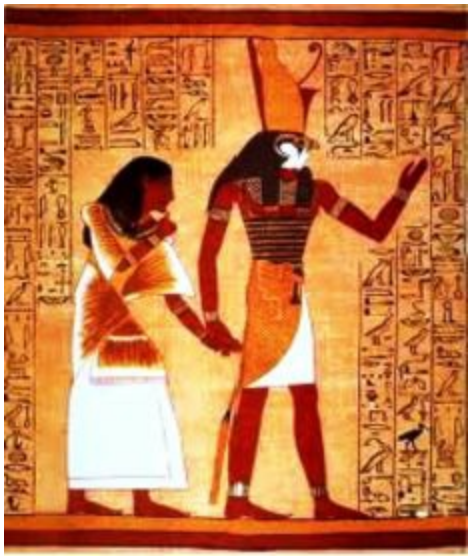
9,330 B.C.

Seth seizes and dismembers Osiris then assumes sole rule over the Nile Valley.

8,970 B.C.

Horus avenges his father Osiris by launching the First Pyramid

War. Seth escapes to Asia. Later Seth seizes the Sinai Peninsula and occupies Canaan.



8,670 B.C.

Opposed to the resulting control of all the space facilities by Enki's descendants the Enlilites launch the Second Pyramid War. The victorious Ninurta empties the Great Pyramid of its transportation and teleportation equipment. Ninhursag (half-sister of Enki and Enlil) convenes peace conference. The division of Earth is reaffirmed. Rule over Egypt is transferred from the Ra/Marduk dynasty to that of Thoth. Heliopolis is built as a substitute Beacon City.

8,500 B.C.

The Anunnaki establish outposts at the gateway to the space facilities. Jericho is one such outpost.

7,400 B.C.

As the era of peace continues the Anunnaki grant Mankind new advances. The Neolithic period begins. Demi-gods rule over Egypt.

3,800 B.C.

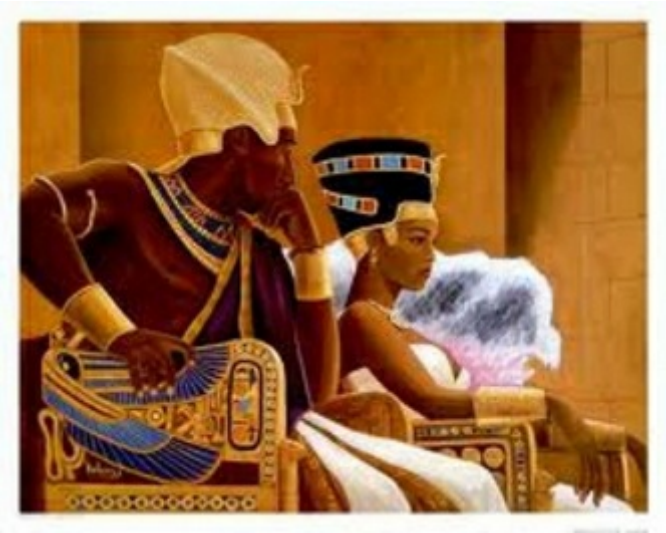
Urban civilization begins in Sumer as the Anunnaki re-establish there the Olden Cities, based around Eridu and Nippur.

Anu visits Earth. A new city (Uruk or Erech) is built in his honour. Anu makes its temple the abode of his beloved granddaughter: Inanna/lshtar.

Kingship on Earth

3,760 BC

Mankind is granted kingship. Kish is the first capital under the aegis of Ninurta. The calendar began at Nippur. The first civilization is in Sumer (the First Region).



3,450 BC

Primacy in Sumer is transferred to Nannar/Sin. Marduk proclaims Babylon the "Gateway of the Gods." There then follows the "Tower of Babel" incident. The Anunnaki confuse Mankind by forcing us to speak many languages.

His coup frustrated Marduk/Ra returns to Egypt thus deposing Thoth. Marduk seizes his younger brother Dumuzi (who had married Inanna). Dumuzi is murdered. As punishment Marduk is imprisoned alive in the Great Pyramid. Freed through an emergency shaft he is sent into exile.

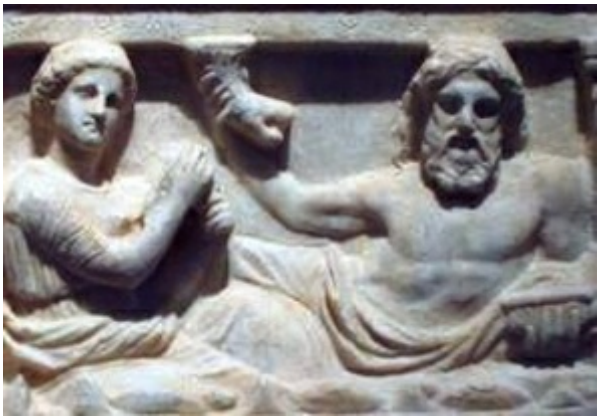
years of chaos end with the installation of the first Egyptian Pharaoh in Memphis. Civilization comes to the Second Region.

2,900 BC

Kingship in Sumer is transferred to Erech. Inanna is given dominion over the Third Region; the Indus Valley Civilization begins.



2,650 BC

Sumer's royal capital shifts from city to city. Kingship deteriorates. Enlil loses patience with the unruly human multitudes.

2,371 BC

Inanna falls in love with Sharru-Kin (Sargon). He establishes a new capital city. It is named Agade (Akkad). The new Akkadian empire emerges.

2,316 BC

Aiming to rule the four regions Sargon removes sacred soil from Babylon. The Marduk-Inanna conflict flares up again. It ends when Nergal (Marduk's brother) journeys from south Africa to Babylon and persuades Marduk to leave Mesopotamia.

2,291 BC

Naram-Sin ascends the throne of Akkad. Directed by the warlike Inanna he penetrates the Sinai Peninsula then invades Egypt.

2,255 BC

Inanna usurps the power in Mesopotamia. Naram-Sin defies Nippur. The Great Anunnaki raze Agade. Inanna escapes. Sumer and Akkad are occupied by foreign troops loyal to Enlil and Ninurta.

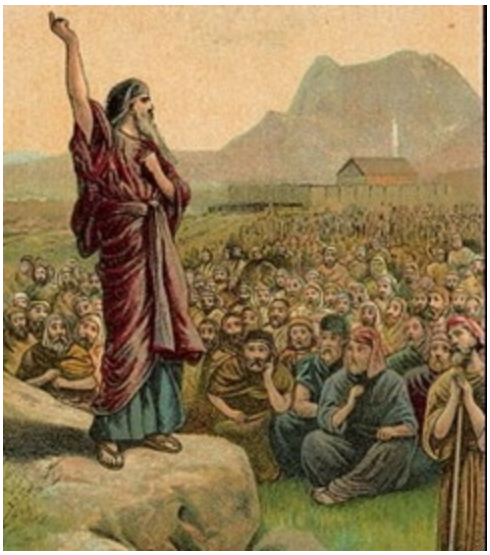
2,220 BC

Sumerian civilization rises to new heights under the enlightened rulers of Lagash. Thoth helps its king Gudea to build a ziggurat-temple for Ninurta.

2,193 BC

Terah (Abraham's father) is born in Nippur into a priestly-royal family.



2,180 BC

Egypt is once again divided. Followers of Ra/Marduk retain the south. Pharaohs opposed to him gain the throne of Lower Egypt.

2,130 BC

As Enlil and Ninurta are increasingly absent central authority deteriorates in Mesopotamia.

The Fateful Century

2,123 BC

Abraham is born in Nippur.

2,113 BC

Enlil entrusts the Lands of Shem to Nannar. Ur is declared the capital of the new empire. Ur- Nammmu ascends the throne. He is named Protector of Nippur. The Nippurian priest Terah comes to Ur to liaise with its royal court.

2,096 BC

Ur-Nammu dies in battle. The people consider his untimely death a betrayal by Anu and Enlil. Terah departs with his family (including Ibrahim) to Harran.

2,095 BC

Shulgi ascends the throne of Ur. He strengthens imperial ties. As the empire thrives Shulgi falls under the charms of Inanna. He becomes her lover. Shulgi grants Larsa to the Elamites in exchange they serve as his Foreign Legion.

2,080 BC

Theban princes loyal to Ra/Marduk press northward under Mentuhotep I. Nabu (Marduk's son) gains adherents for his father in Western Asia.

2,055 BC

On Nannar's orders Shulgi sends Elamite troops to suppress unrest in Canaanite cities. Elamites reach the gateway to the Sinai Peninsula and its Spaceport.

2,048 BC

Shulgi dies. Marduk moves to the Land of the Hittites. Abraham is ordered to southern Canaan with an elite corps of camelmen.

2,047 BC

Amar-Sin (the biblical Amraphel) becomes king of Ur. Abraham goes to Egypt. He stays five years then returns with more troops.

2,041 BC

Guided by Inanna Amar-Sin forms a coalition of Kings of the East. He launches a military expedition to Canaan and the Sinai. Its leader is the Elamite Khedor-la'omer. Abraham blocks the advance at the gateway to the Spaceport.

2,038 BC

Shu-Sin replaces Amar-Sin on throne of Ur as the empire disintegrates.

2,029 BC

Ibbi-Sin replaces Shu-Sin. The western provinces increasingly side with Marduk.

2,024 BC

LEGACY OF THE GODS

Legacy of the Gods is a series of volumes that aims to enlighten the reader. In total the fifty plus volumes provide our true history – hidden from us for so many centuries.

Our rulers have kept the truth hidden from us. Do you wish to know what really happened in the past and most importantly what they have in store for us?

We begin with book 1 Arrival of the Anunnaki.

most special of all. Book 1 concludes with the terrible Great Flood which really did occur some 12000 years ago.
